Lac la Biche Men Make Trip To Uranium City

By T. W. PUE

Marshall Patterson and Ernest Courtney made a trip in August to Uranium City in Saskatchewan, and they haven't forgotten the impressions they got of pioneering in this northern mining centre.

Mr. Patterson took the Northern Alberta Railways train to McMurray and there boarded a Northern Transportation boat for the 300 miles by water, down the Athabasca River and up Athabasca Lake to the Northern Saskatchewan town. Mr. Courtney flew from McMurray but regardless of the means used to get there they were both struck by the same remarkable conditions characteristic of a booming, bustling, sourdough frontier mining town.

A bottle of pop worth not more than 10 cents in any store or restaurant in Lac la Biche, costs 25 cents in Uranium City. If the Alberta Liquor Control Board will pardon us for mentioning the name of the product—beer—cost 40 cents a bottle. Your pocketbook gets a good trimming at the same time as your head when you order a haircut. With all the excess hair you lose $1.50. Marshall may not have shaved during the two weeks he was away because he didn't tell me how much a shave cost.

There were rooms available at the hotel but you could rent 18 square feet of floor space on which to lay your sleeping bag for $3.00 a night, in a rooming house. Meals cost $1.50 each.

Back at work in the modern department store he operates, Mr. Patterson says that although many Albertans think Lac la Biche is a long ways north, it is just the start of the north country. And he believed the settlement at Uranium City is just the start for much greater population in the vast unsettled areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

AN AIR-PHOTO makes an interesting view of any Alberta farm, but this one of the Hugh Allen farm in the Municipal District of Sturgeon, just one mile north of Edmonton city, is a particularly nice "shot". The photography is good and the mid-summer scene is prolific with foliage and crop growth. Besides, the Allen farmstead is an outstanding achievement in itself, and well worth any aviator's time in taking an aerial picture.

NEW VETERINARIAN TO LOCATE IN ATHABASCA ON NOVEMBER 1

News that will be most welcome to most farmers of the Municipal District of Athabasca and the surrounding area, is the announcement that Dr. Jacques Dumouchel, VSD will start practicing in Athabasca on November 1.

This follows many months of unsuccessful attempts to get a veterinarian practitioner to take over the practice vacated by Dr. Paul Gudjurgis. Dr. Dumouchel comes from the Province of Quebec, where he attended Veterinary College. It was learned from good authority that he is an extremely well qualified man. One of the first of Dr. Dumouchel's tasks, which incidentally have to be speeded up owing to the lateness of the season, will be the vaccination for Bang's of some 2,500 heifer calves, and the co-operation of every farmer is hereby requested. Like in 1952, every farmer will get advance notice of the date when the veterinarian will be at his place, to vaccinate the heifer calves. Farmers need not be home, but it is expected that they will co-operate to the extent of having the calves securely tied in the barn on the appointed date. One hardly needs to remind the district that calfhood vaccination is compulsory.

Dr. Dumouchel's temporary headquarters will be at the District Agriculturist's office after Nov. 1, and requests for his services can be placed by telephoning No. 37, Athabasca. Further announcements regarding telephone for week-ends will be made later.

From Fire Truck To Old Trailer

LAC LA BICHE — With new, modern fire fighting equipment the local fire brigade has no further use for the old fire truck. Hence it is being wrecked and the chassis will end up as a trailer, for which there is plenty of demand. Rudigar & Son are doing the work in the Lac la Biche Garage.

Truck Hits One Cow, Six Die Of Poison

BRIEREVILLE — Mr. Charles Gaberel was very unfortunate this fall. To begin with, just after his range cattle came home ready for grazing in the fields after the harvest, one of the cows was hit by a truck owned by Norman Whitford. Norman said he slowed down and so did the cow, as she was running towards the highway. She stopped just across the ditch. He just started to speed up and across the ditch came the cow. He said he stepped on the brakes, but it was too late, as he had already hit her and broke her front leg. He notified Mr. Gaberel immediately and they butchered her.

A week or so later, after Charles Gaberel had finished threshing, he turned his cows into the fields. The next morning he noticed a cow or two lying dead, upon investigating, he found that his cows were poisoned with a chemical used to kill quack grass.

Mr. Gaberel lost six cows with the poison. This is a terrific loss, as Charles is left with one and a few calves. He says that he'll have to start all over again and raise more cattle.

Extinguish Blaze, Save Light Plant

PLAMONDON — A small blaze behind Elmer Plamondon's light plant was discovered in time Thursday night. Sparks from the exhaust flew into some oily rags and set them on fire. Flames were spotted by neighbors, who quickly notified Elmer. With help from the other men who soon gathered at the scene, the fire was quickly extinguished. It would have been a big loss for Elmer and the town too, if the plant had burned down.

$3 Million Chemical Plant Slated To Start Production Next Month

EDMONTON — (BUP)—Next month, Alberta will be the only western province producing chlorine, caustic soda and muriatic acid on a large scale.

W. J. Loney, general manager of the $3,000,000 plant of Western Chemicals Limited, said his plant would begin producing these chemicals in another four weeks.

The plant, situated at Duvernay 70 miles East of Edmonton, will supply chemical and mining industries, and oil refineries with caustic soda. The chlorine will be used for purification, while the muriatic acid will be used in oil refining. About one million cubic feet of natural gas will be used daily to manufacture power for the process.

Construction of the plant's eight buildings has been carried on at full scale since work started late last fall.

Construction in private shipyards in the U.S. is at a 26-month low.

Hunters Urged To Spare Cranes

EDMONTON (BUP) — Alberta hunters have been urged to refrain from shooting at any large white birds, in case they belong to the vanishing whooping crane species, now numbering only 21.

These majestic white birds are now migrating to their wintering grounds at the Arkansas National Wildlife Refuge in Texas, and are passing through Alberta and Saskatchewan from the Northwest Territories.

A spokesman of the Alberta government has warned that severe penalties are in effect for anyone destroying the birds or their eggs. Citizens are urged to report to the game branch if they sight any whooping cranes.

A Sunday School teacher finished a talk on behavior and what we must do to go to heaven. "Now, Tommy," she said, "tell me what we must do before we can expect forgiveness of sin?"

Tommy thought a bit, then replied, "We gotta sin."

No Sleep

Insomnia had been troubling the tailor for several nights and the poor man finally decided to try the old remedy of counting sheep. But the following morning he turned up for business looking more tired than ever.

"What a night!" he told his partner. "I counted 3,000 sheep. Then I happened to figure that they made 8,000 yards of wool. Then I figured that would make 2,500 suits. How can a man sleep, worrying where he could get all that lining?"

Heard Yells Saves Woman

TAWATINAW — Mrs. Victoria Batog, 94, narrowly escaped serious burns when she was using coal oil to light a fire in her small shack stove.

Fortunately she was wearing a heavy woollen sweater at the time. While pouring oil into the stove some of it got on her sweater. When she lit a match her sweater caught fire.

Mrs. Batog screamed and a passer-by rushed in. He threw a heavy blanket over the burning sweater and smothered the flame.

She is suffering from shock and slight hand burns.

Jas. Harkness, RCMP, Ends 21 Years' Service

EDMONTON (BUP) — Const. James A. Harkness has terminated 21 years of service with the RCMP which he joined in Edmonton in 1932.

A native of Scotland, Harkness served with the Royal Navy from 1916 to 1919, after which he spent two years as a police officer in Malaya.

Harkness served with the RCMP provost corps overseas from 1939 to 1945, and has since served at several Alberta points.

What Is Freedom Worth?

It is no secret that the nations of the world today are divided into two blocs. On the one side we have the democracies, and on the other the communists. The difference between them can be summed up by saying that the democracies are those nations in which the people still have the right to choose their own governments in free elections, and in the communist countries the people do not enjoy this right.

We in this country, in common with other democracies, are spending billions of dollars in order to maintain and build up armed forces and armaments which will, we hope, enable us to protect ourselves from the threat presented by the imperialistic aims of the communists. Why? Because, presumably, we want to continue to enjoy the right of freely choosing and electing those who govern us. Apparently we consider this right to be something which is particularly desirable and particularly valuable.

What puzzles us, however, and what must undoubtedly puzzle the communists too, is the fact that so many people seem to value this right, which was obtained and is being maintained at such terrific cost, so little.

For example, in the last provincial election, half of our people never took the trouble to go to the polls to vote. In the federal election last summer only six out of every ten bothered to exercise their franchise. And at the municipal election just held in the city of Edmonton nine out of every ten on the voters' list were doing something else on election day and didn't bother to go to the polls.

Yes, it certainly must cause the Malenkov's and the Vishinski's to scratch their heads when they try to figure out why we should guard so jealously and with such tenacity and self-sacrifice a right which so many people can't find time to use. We're scratching our heads too. If freedom isn't worth the trouble to go to the polls and vote, what is it worth?

The Family Sock Is Obsolete

Time was, when the wise man tucked away his spare cash in the family sock—or in a shoe-box or mattress. Such customs are recalled with the fondness one reserves for memories. But like most memories, the actual facts are often too steeped in nostalgia to be clearly recalled.

The fact is the family sock judged by modern standards had several serious faults as a savings bank. It was too easy to reach for it and remove the contents. It offered no protection against theft or loss. It left the question of how much to put away entirely unanswered. It paid no interest. You got back only what you put in and that amount was almost always less than you hoped.

Compare the family sock with the modern Canada Savings Bond way of saving money. The bonds you purchase are not within immediate reach: you have to make a considered decision to cash them—not quite so easy as reaching for the sock. They are registered in the owner's name—either child or adult—and no one can redeem except the registered owner. The question of how much to put away depends upon your own circumstances. Canada Savings Bonds are available in convenient denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and $5,000. The Bonds pay you a handsome 3½% interest per year yet there are no risks. Canada Savings Bonds can be cashed instantly and you can always get back what you put into them—plus earned interest!

Each year since war's end, a new series of Canada Savings Bonds has been issued and more than a million Canadians have used this convenient method of saving. The forthcoming offering is in the Eighth Series and the terms of the new bonds are more attractive than ever.

You can get your new Eighth Series, Canada Savings Bonds at your bank, investment dealer or where you work on the Pay-roll Savings Plan.

Wheat production throughout the world exceeds the production of rice. In 1950 world wheat production totalled 384 billion pounds, and world rice production 343 billion pounds, or 90 per cent of the wheat production.

APPEAL TO QUEEN

Was the Wrong Man Put To Death?

By T. W. PUE

A new, horrifying possibility that the wrong man was executed for the murder of his baby daughter, in England, has taken the British conscience by storm. Particularly is this chance—that an innocent man was strung from the garrot for a crime he did not commit—revolting to those who, like myself, are opposed to capital punishment.

T. W. Pue

While the ghost of Timothy Evans, a 25-year-old illiterate truck driver, plagues the British Government, millions suspect that Evans was not the man who killed the baby girl. Evans' mother, Mrs. Agnes Probert, is petitioning Queen Elizabeth for a new inquiry into her son's conviction, to clear his name of the crime.

But that can not bring back Timothy Evans. Had he been given a life sentence his case could be reviewed and he, if proven innocent, could have been released.

Timothy Evans cannot be brought back to life, and for him justice can not be done in his natural lifetime. But Geoffrey Bing, a Socialist M.P., is preparing to demand that Parliament act to find out whether Evans was put to death for a crime committed by mass murderer John Christie, principal witness against Evans.

It was Christie's testimony to establish himself as an insane slayer of many women which first raised the question of justice in the case of Evans, a fellow roomer at 10 Rillington Place.

Mrs. Beryl Evans and her 14-month-old daughter were found dead late in 1949. Christie accused Evans, and Evans was tried for the child's murder. In court he accused Christie of both murders and was scoffed at. He was hanged in 1950.

Three years later, during his own trial for murder, Christie declared it was he who killed Mrs. Evans.

Both prosecution and defense were careful to say that Christie had not killed the child and that there had been no miscarriage of justice in Evans' case. Sir Lionel Heald, crown prosecutor, said it was not good to cause the British public misgivings on matters of justice.

A public clamor arose for a reprieve for Christie so that he could testify at a public inquiry into the Evans case before he was executed. The Director of Public Executions ordered a private inquiry and Christie was questioned in his death cell.

He said he had simply named Mrs. Evans among his victims to strengthen his plea for insanity—that he had not actually murdered his neighbor, or her baby.

Thereupon Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, Home Secretary, announced, "There was no miscarriage of justice in the Evans case." Christie was executed on schedule.

Bing, a lawyer, attacks the authenticity of Evans' confession, a 1,952-word document said to have been taken down in 80 minutes by a police inspector. Allowing time for questions and answers and reading the statement, Bing argues such speed in writing is "beyond human capacity."

He plans to question the Home Secretary on this point before Commons when Parliament convenes this month.

Winter Rye And Winter Wheat Seed

Each year many farmers are disappointed when in August or early September they want to buy some Winter Wheat or Winter Rye Seed to sow their fields and find that none is obtainable. The reason is that usually the new crop of Winter Wheat or Winter Rye is not always harvested in time to have it cleaned and so to be salable by August or September. The question might be asked, why do not seed dealers and others keep on hand sufficient stock from the previous year to be available to farmers? The answer is that it is very expensive to carry seed over, which of course adds to the price, and risky also because no one knows what the demand from farmers will be.

To avoid disappointment, then, farmers who think they intend to sow Winter Wheat or Winter Rye should put in an order for seed as soon as possible after the harvesting of the current crop, and themselves store the seed and keep it over until the following August or September when they intend to sow it. In this way farmers will be assured of supplies and can secure them at the cheapest price.

UNSOLD SURPLUSES

If the producers and the consumers of farm products were free to meet wherever it suits their convenience, and to bargain freely with each other, they would soon agree on prices that would allow the surplus products to pass into consumption, and world trade would be resumed.

But so long as we depend on governments to arrange all these things for us, we will have to put up with whatever arrangements they make, and endure the effects of their miscalculations.

Rural Scene

Said One Premier To The Other

From the Calgary Herald

We understand that W. A. C. Bennett, the junior Social Credit Premier of British Columbia, and Ernest C. Manning, the senior Social Credit Premier of Alberta, had a little get-together in Edmonton last week-end.

We wonder if anybody is now in a position to explain in what basic characteristics the people of British Columbia are so very different from the people of Alberta. The people of British Columbia are considered mature enough to be consulted in the matter of what kind of liquor laws they want, and when they have spoken their minds the Social Credit government rightly sets about meeting their wishes.

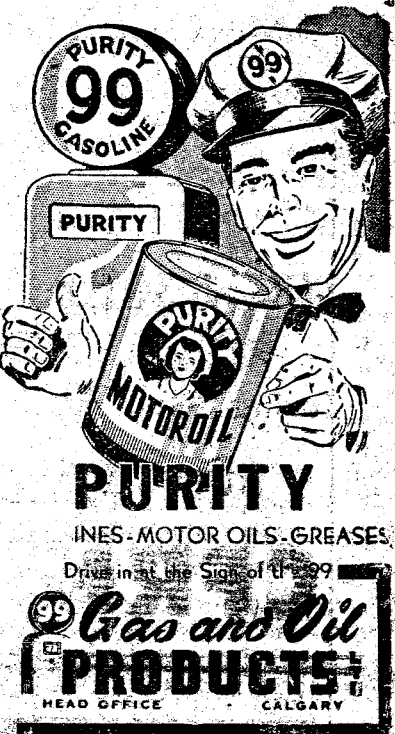

The people of Alberta, on the other hand, are obviously not mature enough to be consulted on the same subject. Even responsible and prominent Alberta citizens who have managed to make their opinions known to Edmonton have been ignored. And because public opinion has resolutely been denied any opportunity of expressing itself, public opinion is automatically in complete agreement with Mr. Manning. This is basic Social Credit doctrine in Alberta.

We know, of course, that the people who live in Calgary and Edmonton are notoriously different from the people who live anywhere else in this province. They are an irresponsible lot and cannot be trusted with the privilege of mixed drinking in the beer taverns. People living outside the two major cities, of course, are made of much sterner moral stuff. In addition, we are also aware that all the people of Alberta, presumably including those in Calgary and Edmonton, are superior to the people of Britain because the British have lost their sense of spiritual values. Mr. Manning made this pretty plain a few days ago.

With these two facts in mind, we are slowly making progress in understanding. The people of Alberta as a whole rank somewhere ahead of Britain but considerably behind the people of B.C. The people of Calgary and Edmonton come right at the bottom of the scale, somehow, better than Brit- ain, but worse than anybody else in Alberta and definitely inferior to the people of B.C.

GUILTY FEELING ASSAILS THIS LADY WHEN SHE BESTS COUSIN IN LOVE

Dear Louisa,

My cousin and I are liking the same boy but he met her first and went around with her but after he saw me he liked me better and he started paying me attention.

When we are together he stays with me and pays her very little attention. I like him very much and he likes me but I hate to feel as though I have taken my cousin's boy friend. What would you do? Please answer as quickly as possible.

Answer:

Unless the boy and your cousin were engaged or unless you deliberately tried to take him from her, I don't think that you can blame yourself if the boy has fallen in love with you and wishes to be with you rather than with your cousin.

I have seen girls, however, who set out to get every eligible young man in sight and I think it a very underhanded trick to play on a friend to take her young man away from her when she has probably been including you among the party in order to give you pleasure.

You know the situation, my dear, and I am sure you know whether you have treated your cousin fairly or otherwise.

LOUISA

Dear Louisa,

Will you please give me some advice? I have gone with a boy a few times and he says he loves me very much and wants me to marry him but I am older than he is and I don't think I really love him. I like him very much. He says the age doesn't make any difference; that he loves me just as much as if I was his age. My parents like him very much.

The only boy I ever loved is married and he loved me too but some folks told things that weren't true and kept us apart. So I'm not sure I'll ever love anyone else.

This young man is so nice to me that I am very fond of him, but I don't think it's a good idea to get married with love in my heart for the other boy although I know we can never get married.

No one I meet means anything to me. My parents think I will learn to love this young man.

A Very Lonely Girl.

Answer:

You certainly should not get married feeling as you do, for you will be doing the young man a great wrong.

But the sensible thing for you to do is to make up your mind to forget the young man you lost. Put him out of your mind. What is past is past and there is no use in dwelling on mistakes that have been made.

There is certainly no future in thinking about something you can't have, so make up your mind that that affair is water over the dam and try to put it behind you.

But don't marry someone just to get married. Be sure that you love him before you become his wife.

ROMULUS, N.Y. — Everybody was working so hard to make the birthday party being planned for the Rev. C. F. Ban Marter, pastor of the Presbyterian Church here, a success that they overlooked one important detail. They forgot to invite him to his own party.

Survives 4,000-Volt Shock

SAN LEANDRO, Cal. — While fighting a grass fire, William Wolter, 48, chief of the Alameda county fire patrol, brushed against a 4,000-volt power line. The shock threw the chief into the air. He fell and rolled down a hill. After treatment for shock, he took the rest of the day off.

45 Charges Laid Against Him

BALTIMORE, Md. — A 42-year-old painter, William H. Brady, who led police on a 45-minute, 65-mile-an-hour chase in a horse van across the city, while his wife and six-year-old son huddled beside him, had 54 traffic charges—a record total—lodged against him. He was arrested when the van he was driving smashed into a police car which was waiting to block him.

Basket-Seller Loses Savings

BALTIMORE, Md. — George Gerczak, 69-year-old owner of a produce store, who didn't trust banks, sold a customer 33 bushel baskets. It was not until after the man left that Gerczak realized that the pile of bushel baskets was where he and his wife had hidden a candy-box, with all their savings of the years—about $8,500 in cash and $1,000 worth of jewelry. Police and Mr. Gerczak are hoping the stranger will return the money.

Waldo's A Hero

REDWOOD CITY, Cal. — Waldo, the green and red parrot belonging to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zurita, is not only a pet, but a hero. His frantic screeches aroused the sleeping Zuritas in the early morning hours as smoke and flames shot through the floor of their upstairs apartment from the garage below. Waldo was saved from the fire, along with a few possessions of the Zuritas.

Buried Wrong Man

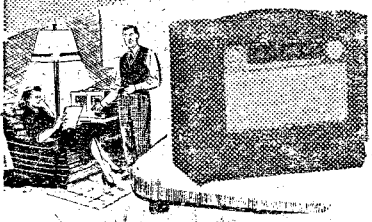

TEXARKANA, Tex. — Relatives, who just three weeks before had "buried" Van Iber Sellman, 46, were shocked to find that they had buried a man, who looked exactly like Sellman, who had been killed by a freight train. Sellman was in Longview, Texas, when told of his "death" and, although hale and hearty at the time, he collapsed from shock. Who the man was who had been buried is still a mystery.

'Mail' Box Alarms

SAN DIEGO, Cal. — A Mexican woman walked up to a red "letter" box and pulled the hook. Instead of finding the letter slot, she soon heard screaming sirens and fire trucks. She explained her mistake to a policeman, who asked to see her passport. She had none and was booked on suspicion of illegal entry into this country. Her letter was mailed, though, in a green box.

EDMONTON (BUP) — Two Canadian brothers who served with the army in Korea have told how prisoners of war returned from interment as professed Communists.

"Many PoWs who came back through my camp were Communists," Eugene said. He added "they have obviously been well treated, but they were really indoctrinated with Communism."

PEACE WILL BE FOUND WHEN WE RECOGNIZE THE GOOD IN OTHERS

By L. W. NEWCOMBE

There is great need to get back to realities. We seem to be rushing along toward destruction, and know not how to stop in our mad course and consider the precipice before us to which we move with headlong speed.

It is impossible of course to go back to another age of the ox cart, nor would it be desirable if we could. In England, a few weeks ago an old couple died within a day of each other. They had not ridden on a train or listened to a radio, and knew nothing of the wars or disputes of nations. They were not unhappy in their life together. This is the extreme but there must be a happier medium than our present restless, thoughtless "assembly line" existence so dominant in cities.

In an editorial in Maclean's, Shapiro tells of a bus conductor in London, during the Coronation procession, who left his bus to direct a passenger to the store she sought, told her the door to enter and the exact floor to find the children's clothes she wished to purchase. England, he says, moves at a slower pace than we do here, and he thinks they are the better for it. The standard of life is more important than the standard of living.

The better values of life are revealed in many ways. During the recent tornado destruction in Michigan, Ohio and Massachusetts, the Burmese government donated $10,000 for the relief of the victims. During the Manitoba floods England sent over two strato-cruisers loaded with $200,000 worth of supplies to assist in the relief work whilst her own people were rationed on food. When France was so short of fats the people of England voluntarily asked their government to reduce their ration by one ounce in order to share. A British test pilot in Bristol lost his life because he refused to land his plane on a cricket field where school boys played. Dozens of rescue planes go out and find and help the injured, sick or lost, indeed thousands of men and women lay down their lives to save others, and they do it willingly and cheerfully.

With such vast, indeed unlimited resources of goodwill the possibility of peace surely is good. Parents and grandparents spend their best efforts in instilling ideals of service into their children. Yet how often are these fine lives sacrificed because men in authority talk about national "spheres of influence", prestige, or no appeasement. Today in Moscow and in Washington hands are hovering always above a push button that may destroy civilization.

Churchill said: "Moralists may find it a melancholy thought that peace can find no nobler foundations than mutual terror. If there is a breathing space, it would be a grave mistake to suppose that interlude will last forever, or even last more than a few years."

There lies before man, if he wishes, a golden age of peace and prosperity and progress. He has only to conquer his last and worst enemy, himself. With vision, faith and courage it may still be in our power to win a crowning victory for all. Malenkov seems to be offering a settlement by negotiation. If this opportunity slips by there may not be another.

Men everywhere want peace, but it can be found only when the good in other people is recognized when the facts on any matter are gathered together and discussed in a friendly spirit and a mutually agreed solution sought. A good Biblical motto to follow is "Let us follow the things that make for peace." Peace will be found only by those who earnestly seek it.

Education Costs Up 5 Times In 10 Years

LETHBRIDGE — (BUP) — Education expenditures by the Alberta government have increased five and one-half times in the past decade, Education Minister A. O. Aalborg said last night.

Speaking at opening ceremonies of the $310,000 Wilson Junior High School at Lethbridge, Aalborg said the government is spending about $18,500,000 on education this year, compared with about $5,500,000 in 1943.

Aalborg also pointed out that education expenditures are now almost equal to the entire expenditure for all government services 10 years ago.

Fluoridation Report Ready

EDMONTON (BUP) — Alberta industries minister Dr. John L. Robinson said that a provincial government report on fluoridation of water will be made public at the annual meeting of the research council of Alberta.

The meeting will be held in Edmonton on December 15.

The committee, headed by Dr. H. N. Grace, investigated the merits of fluoridation of public supplies, which has been tried on an experimental basis to combat tooth decay among children.

Stress Basic Schooling In "Three R's"

EDMONTON—(BUP)—The Alberta Associated Chambers of Commerce and Agriculture has called on the Provincial Government to provide school children with more intensive schooling in the "three R's".

A 14-man delegation, headed by G. D. O'Brien of Vegreville, gave the cabinet 19 resolutions which had been adopted at the organization's annual meeting in Red Deer this spring.

Other resolutions call for extension of the Northern Alberta Railway, improvement of traffic safety, and development of the Alberta coal industry.

The Chambers of Commerce applauded action of the Education Department in lengthening the period of study of English in the school curriculum, but also urged extra time to be devoted to arithmetic and spelling.

Noting complaints from business men that many young employees are unable to write legibly or express themselves clearly, their resolution said "lack of sufficient grounding in the three R's is the main cause for complaint."

The delegation expressed approval of the government's driver testing program, but urged that it be expanded, and called for implementation of a demerit recording system similar to that in use in Manitoba.

Development of the northland was recommended through extension of the Northern Alberta Railway from Hines Creek to Fort St. John, B.C., and also to Finlay Forks, B.C., and thence to the Pacific Coast.

The Chambers also called on the government to help the coal industry in getting back on its feet by expanding research and marketing facilities.

SALISBURY — Mrs. W. Stephen has rose bushes that are still blooming. A bush with three yellow roses has eight more big buds ready to burst into bloom and a hybrid tea rose with about 20 to 30 buds on it. If the weather stays nice, she will have plenty to cut. While these bushes were planted this

Eight Walk Away From Demolished Car

EDMONTON — A man, his son, a daughter, a son-in-law and four grandchildren today count themselves very lucky as they tell about the miracle of being in an accident in which their car was completely demolished and they live to tell the story of how the car driven by Mr. E. J. Randolph plowed into the side of a threshing machine, about five miles from Daysland, as he was returning to Edmonton with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. V. Kuntz and their four children, ranging from three months to eight years. The threshing machine had no lights on it and a truck, supposedly lighting the way blinded Mr. Randolph and the impact threw him through the windshield, cutting his face, and his 16-year-old son, riding in the back and holding the baby, was thrown out through a door. He was still holding the infant when he got up.

Out of this came a broken ankle, cracked ribs, bruises and cuts. A girl six and a boy two, were taken to the hospital and have since been released. Mr. Randolph lives at 12836 128 St. The accident happened last Thursday.

date of the plant in Strathcona Municipality cannot yet be set, as considerable pipe-fitting and welding remains to be done.

Ethylene, the base product for polythene, will be extracted from natural gas in about two weeks, Wright said. The plant's power house is already in operation.

The opening of production at the plant will mark the first time that polythene is produced in Canada.

Malnutrition No Respector Of Persons; Pudgy or Skinny Child Is Victim

Malnutrition is no respecter of persons and recognizes no barriers as to race, social background or wealth. The fat, pudgy child is just as badly nourished as the thin, skinny one. In its broadest sense, when anything interferes with a child's normal growth and development, it means that the child is suffering from malnutrition. The beginnings of malnutrition are often so insidious, subtle and unsuspected that it may go unrecognized until it presents itself in a dramatic typical picture: the pale, listless, lackadaisical, dull-eyed, stoop-shouldered, saggy-kneed, flabby and easily tired child. To the observant parent, nurse or physician such a child demands immediate medical attention. But there are countless other children suffering from malnutrition; because they do not show it in such an obvious way their condition may go undetected for a long time.

There are three main causes of malnutrition and any one of them is capable of affecting a child. First there is the most obvious one, faulty nutrition—either too much or too little food improper selection of foods in the daily menu, or faulty eating habits. Secondly, pathological causes which include acute and chronic diseases, glandular troubles and inability of the body to use foods properly. Thirdly there are the psychological factors when the child is subject to emotional tensions in an unhappy family life or suffers from mental and physical fatigue.

How can we recognize malnutrition in its early stages? This problem has been baffling scientists for a long time. The usual method of appraising a child's physical condition has been to compare his height to a "standard" for his age which in turn had been obtained by taking the average of a selected group of boys and girls. Obviously such a method was scientifically unsound. It did not take into account the child's race, heredity, prenatal factors, disease, home influences and environment, and other factors all of which have important bearing on the child's development. The child of tall, beanpole parents does not grow the same way or at the same speed as the child of short, stocky parents.

Only recently has there been developed methods of determining a child's physical condition. One such method employs a chart known as the Wetzel Grid. The child's growth and development are compared against his own expectancies—that is, his ability to keep his physique or body shape, whether he is stocky, medium or thin and at the same time keep even with his individual schedule or speed of development. The Wetzel Grid is intended to give clues of impending malnutrition sometimes long before the parent or doctor can see the clinical signs.

MAKES SEVEN CROSSINGS, FOUR TRIPS TO KOREA

OTTAWA—A 33-year-old Montreal soldier and former policeman, Cpl. B. A. (Bert) Clinton, believes in travelling. He's on his way to Korea for the fourth time.

A wartime paratrooper with a thirst for adventure, he sailed recently from a west coast port for the Far East with the 2nd Battalion The Black Watch (Royal Highland Regiment) of Canada.

It will be his seventh trip across the Pacific with an element of the 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade since Canada first sent troops to Korea in the Fall of 1950.

His first trip to the "land of the morning calm" was with the party which sailed in advance of the brigade to set up a Canadian training camp near Pusan.

During his second tour of duty in the Far East, Clinton served as personal rifleman to Brig. John R. Rockingham, who commanded the brigade at that time. Clinton wore the badges of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. Back in Canada he transferred to the Royal 22nd Regiment and sailed with the 1st Battalion of that regiment for a third time to Korea.

Born in Argentina of French and

CPL. B. A. CLINTON

Spanish parents, Clinton now speaks Italian, Spanish and Japanese as well as English. A veteran paratrooper of the Second World War, he saw service in the United Kingdom, Italy and the south of France.

When not soldiering far from home he lives with his aunt, Mrs. Ernest Thompson, 1740 Champlain Street, Montreal, Que.

CPR Had First Domes

A long forgotten genius in the Canadian Pacific Railway's motive power and rolling stock department came up with an idea at the turn of the 20th century that blossomed into additional passenger revenues for rail lines throughout the continent.

It was the first "dome" car to be used on railway lines and was designed to give passengers a bird's eye view of Canada's spectacular Rocky Mountain scenery. Today the idea has spread throughout the world, particularly in the United States where railway dome cars are a feature of several lines.

In a recent $38,000,000 order for 155 new stainless steel cars, the C.P.R. included 36 scenic-dome cars, such as the one shown above in top picture, which will give travellers an unmatched view of this country's scenery from coast to coast. The cars will be placed in service on transcontinental trains next year.

Although the designer of the dome car prototype, shown in bottom picture above, remains unknown, he gave Canada's first transcontinental rail line a head start in railway design. In July, 1902, the world's first dome car rolled out of the shops and into service.

In it, railway passengers could sit in revolving parlor car chairs or reversible seats and have a clear view of Canada's scenery.

The car proved an immediate hit and three others, with modified improvements, were put into service. But the C.P.R.'s unknown designer had outstripped his era.

Air conditioning and Polaroid glass were unknown and the sun's ultra-violet rays proved uncomfortably warm. The cars were replaced with open-air observation cars, several years later.

The railway reverted back to its original idea recently when it ordered the 36 dome cars—more than 50 years after it first had them on the road.

"Canada's scenery is hard to beat in any corner of the land," a railway official said. "We admit the Rocky Mountain area is the most spectacular, but we believe the cars can be used to advantage from coast to coast."

FORMER ALBERTA FARM GIRL NOW SAILOR ON THE HIGH SEAS

TORONTO (BUP) — A young farm girl from Alberta who dreamed of a sea-faring life, while she lived on the flat prairies, has shipped aboard a Norwegian oil tanker to fulfil her life's ambition.

Bette Coutts, a stenographer with a Vancouver steamship company, studied Spanish at night school while she waited on 24-hour call with a valid passport to go aboard an ocean steamer.

Her dreams of life at sea came true when she signed aboard the M. T. Nerva at San Pedro, Calif. Bette's only surprise was to find herself no oddity on the Norwegian tanker.

The Nerva travels to South America and the Caribbean carrying a regular crew of 40 men and four girls. Once aboard, Bette discovered Norwegian girls go to sea as a matter of course.

One of the four girls is a wireless operator while Bette and two others are "messengers" or stewardesses to the Nerva's crew of 40 men.

The sea-faring women have private accommodation in attractively decorated cabins and spend their off-duty hours lounging in the ship's salt water pool or enjoying multilingual sing-songs with the over-abundance of male company.

All the Norwegian crew are eager to practice their school-book English on Bette, and her messroom headquarters are seldom empty. She has yet to wash the dishes alone.

Wages on the tanker provide an additional "risk pay" for working aboard a ship carrying a dangerous cargo. But to attractive Bette, there is another unpaid risk—that of marriage—a constant danger on the Nerva. Few girls have ever served aboard the tanker without becoming engaged or married.

Looking at the situation frankly, Bette said she'll wait until she "really falls in love" before succumbing to the high rate of proposals at sea, where men outnumber the girls 10 to one.

"I'm content to have fun," she said. "I'll transfer to ships with different routes and scrub my way around the world."

Meanwhile she is fascinated by

Big Change In Canadian Justice Since George III

SYDNEY, N.S. (BUP) — A lot has happened to the law since Charles Dickens exposed its severity in his novels. Prothonotary A. D. Muggah of the Supreme Court here has unearthed some of the changes in old musty records of the court.

On Nov. 11, 1785, the Chief Justice presided at the trial of John Winter, 26, of Louisbourg, who was found guilty of stealing 16 pairs of white yarn stockings from a store.

The Chief Justice ordered his hand to be burnt and that he should then work six months in the coal mines of King George III at Spanish River.

The next case before the Chief Justice was rape, and the prisoner again was found guilty. He

Year Delay Setting Up Eight Alberta Counties

EDMONTON (BUP) — Alberta Municipal Affairs Minister C. E. Gerhart says applications from eight areas to become counties will not be dealt with "for at least a year."

Gerhart said no action will be taken until the final report from the Co-Terminus Boundary Commission, which has been carrying out surveys in southern parts of the province.

The commission has been studying data on the boundaries of school divisions and municipalities. The divisions and the municipalities are amalgamated when counties are set up, and duplication of administration is claimed as one of the benefits of the county scheme.

The commission, headed by W. J. Dick, is expected to make a preliminary report this fall but the final report will not be made until late next year.

Four counties have so far been set up in Alberta.

was released with a reprimand.

Shift the scene to the present, and Winter, if he had no record, probably would get a suspended sentence. The rapist almost certainly would go to penitentiary.

QUEEN WILL SUPPORT SISTER IN CHOICE OF A HUSBAND

Queen Elizabeth appears to sympathize with Margaret's controversial love for war hero Peter Townsend, reports MacKenzie Porter, assistant editor of Maclean's Magazine. From London, England, Porter has contributed to the current issue of Maclean's a thorough report on Townsend and the slow but unmistakable growth of affection between him and the Princess.

On-the-spot observers believe the Queen will support her sister if Margaret insists on marrying Townsend, Porter says. As evidence of Elizabeth's approval of Townsend, Porter describes her warm farewell to him on his departure for Brussels to take up his duties as Air Attache. "The Queen gave him a comforting smile and reporters left the scene convinced that she was on the side of her sister and equerry," Porter says. The fate of the romance will hang in the balance until the Queen returns from her visit to Australia and New Zealand this year, the Maclean's article explains. "By then," Porter suggests, some plan may have been devised to give them a dignified marriage even if it has to be held outside the Church of England."

To gauge public reaction the Mirror, English newspaper with the biggest circulation in the world, polled its readers and received a landslide vote in favor of a wedding, Porter reports. He quotes Hugh Cudlipp, editorial director of the paper, as saying: "The Second Elizabethan Age is upon us and the days of the Puritans are numbered."

SEVERAL NAME FILM STARS AT WORK IN JASPER PARK

JASPER, (BUP) — This famous Rocky Mountain resort, accustomed to wealthy tourists and free-spending travellers, was bitten with "movieitis" today as the filming of four feature-length motion pictures neared completion.

Three miles from Jasper Village, more than 500 visitors, enjoying the plush comforts of the new $3,000,000 Jasper Park Lodge, were watching a daily parade of screen stars including Marilyn Monroe, Robert Mitchum, Corinne Calvet and James Stewart.

For every star in Jasper, there also were about 15 behind-the-scenes workers — prop men, make-up crews, wardrobe personnel, extras, horse wranglers, and even an RCMP patrol.

At night, souvenir shops frequented by a familiar screen personality were attracting crowds of curious watchers. Cowboys, many with Texan and Oklahoma accents as broad as their hats, were stalking up and down the streets, in sharp contrast to the stolid Indians who stand silently on the corners.

The motion pictures being filmed at Jasper this summer include "River of No Return," "The Far Country," "Rose-Marie," and "The Human Beast."

Everybody in Jasper knows the story of Marilyn Monroe, curvaceous blonde star of "River of No Return," and Harry Rowed, souvenir shop proprietor.

Harry was working late one Sunday when Miss Monroe tapped on the door. She had come to "just look around." A crowd gathered at the shop window.

Finally, Miss Monroe spotted Harry's stock of sweaters. "Here's the one I want," she said. "May I try it on, please?"

"No," Rowed said reluctantly, explaining that Sunday sales were prohibited in Alberta. "Besides," the blushing Harry added, "I have no dressing room."

Harry sent her a set of sweaters the next day which Marilyn could try on in the privacy of her room.

Six-foot-plus Joe DiMaggio, the baseball maestro, often seen with Miss Monroe on her window-shopping tours, received a candid opinion of baseball from six-year-old Billy Gunning of Ottawa, son of the manager of Jasper Park Lodge.

Joe was posing for a snapshot on the lawns of the lodge, and asked Billy if he liked baseball. "No, I don't," the lad replied. "Football is my game."

Joe just laughed — after he caught his breath.

Anthony Mann, director of "The Far Country," had a little problem of his own to settle. Soon after he persuaded outfitter Fred Brewster to collect 50 horned steers for a scene in the movie, he received a phone call.

It was from the night clerk of Jasper Park Lodge.

"Where do you want those steers, Mr. Mann, the first load has just arrived."

Mann thought a moment, then replied, "There are twin beds in my room. There is room for one here, put the rest in Fred Brewster's corral."

One-fourth fewer banks are foreseen in the next 25 years.

NEVER MIND

By NORAH MACDOUGALL, Burtonsville, Alta.

What's the use of always fretting
O'er the trials we shall find
Ever strewn along our pathway?
Travel on, and never mind.

Travel onward, working, hoping,
Cast no lingering glance behind,
After trials once encountered
Look ahead, and never mind.

What is past is past forever,
Let all fretting be resigned.
It will never help the matter,
Do your best and never mind.

And if those who should befriend you
Whom the ties of nature bind
Should refuse to do their duty
Look to Heaven and never mind.

Friendly words are often spoken
When the feelings are unkind,
Take them for their real value,
Pass them by, and never mind.

Fate may threaten, clouds may lower
Enemies may be combined,
If your trust in God is steadfast,
He will help you, never mind.

Teachers Attend Convention

EDMONTON — Teachers of the Athabasca School Division attended the second Edmonton district teachers' convention held at the Masonic Temple on October 5 and 6. Other divisions attending the convention were Horden, Lamont, Strawberry and Wetaskiwin.

The executive officers of the Athabasca local elected at the convention are: President, I. Stonehocker; vice-president, Miss Alice O'Dwyer; secretary, Miss Laura Scott. Other members elected were: Salary negotiation committee, V. Lopushinski, A. Nimco, N. J. Andruski; track meeting committee, E. J. Slettedahl, T. Korble, N. R. Fallis; AGM delegates, Mrs. J. Golonko, Mrs. M. Devernychuk; press correspondent, V. Laskosky.

The major part of the convention was devoted to workshop group discussions. The groups were divided into Division 1, Division 2, Junior High School, Senior High School, Industrial Arts, and Home Economics. Guest speakers at the convention were Dr. Delmer T. Oviatt, head of the Department of Elementary Education, University of Utah; D. R. Cameron, registrar of the department of education; and W. Pilkington, of the psychology department of the faculty of education.

Mr. Cameron spoke on the topic "Problem Parents and Teachers". He singled out several types of problem parents. One type is the over solicitous and indulgent parents who are too protective with their children. Other types of problem parents are those who are too critical; those who are strangers because they are just not interested in their school; and still another type are those who are completely irresponsible with their children and expect the teachers to alone be responsible for bringing up their children to be good citizens.

Mr. Cameron also pointed out several types of problem teachers. The pedantic type of teacher is "one bulging with knowledge. 'Such a teacher is like a wick with too much oil,' he said. 'There is lots of smoke but very little light.' 'The indolent teacher who believes in short hours and long holidays is a poor type; and the saint teacher who is divorced from every human desire also is poor.' Such a teacher places herself on a pedestal, has no special spirit or temptations, and is willing to work for no pay. Mr. Cameron said, 'The self-effacing, humble teacher who feels that the teaching profession is second best does little to improve the profession.'

Mr. Pilkington discussed the meaning of words and their importance in teaching. "Words are a study of our way of life," he said. "The key to the whole business of imparting knowledge is contained in words. They are signs along the road to meaning. The meaning of words change and yet we expect our youngsters to understand what we say. Words have many different meanings and we must remember that. If this were not so lawyers would be out of business". One of the key things to remember in teaching is, "What does it mean to me and what does it mean to the children?"

The convention business came to a close with the election of officers for 1953-54. The officers elected were: President, N. J. Andruski, Athabasca; vice-president, R. W. Pulleybank, Wetaskiwin; and secretary-treasurer, N. A. Melnyk, Andrew.
